THE DUELLO.—As all new countries, containing, as they necessarily do, a mixed population, are apt to get up affairs of honor under the code, for wrongs either real or imaginary, that parties are sure to conclude are perpetrated against them by others, whom they lose But little time in calling to the field. And as blood has been snuffed in the breeze on several occasions in this latitude, we shall publish from time to time the opinions of several of the leading statesmen of our country, both North and South, on the practice of dueling, so that if there are those who would rather not fight after being challenged, they can see that it is not always considered dishonorable to decline. Among others who have written and spoken on this subject, we shall quote from Gen. Charles Cotesworth Pinckney and Hon. Robt. Barnwell Rhett, of South Carolina, Geo. D. Prentice of Kentucky, Gen. Alex. Hamilton of New York, Hon. Thomas Clayton of Deleware, and Judge Pitt of Kentucky. On the ouride of to-day's paper will be found the sentiments of Gen. Pinckney, of South Carolina, a member to the convention that framed the Constitution of the U. S. He it was that said to the French Minister' "millions for defense but not one cent for tribute.'

DEEP MINES.—The deepest shaft we believe yet dug as a mine, on the Pacific Coast, is that at Weaverville, Cal., dug by Sites, and known as "Sites' Deep Hole." This "great bore" is 660 feet in depth, and when it was completed, was perfectly dry, notwithstanding ordinary prospect holes in the immediate vicinity contained a foot or two of water at twenty feet from the surface. Gold was found the whole distance from the top until they struck "bed-rock" at the bottom, but nothing that would pay for work. The deepest mine in the world, is in Bohemia, at a place called Vselechnecht, which is 3778 feet below the surface of the earth. The deepest below the sea level is a coal mine at Newcastle, England, running down beneath the water 2000 ft.

"IRON-CLADS."—This is the name we hear applied to the immense cellars—or "Root-houses," as they are termed in Oregon—in the rear of nearly all the stores and business houses in Bannock. They are constructed by digging a large, square pit in the ground, and covering it with timber in the shape of a house roof, after which earth is heaped upon it until it is considered fire-proof. In these are kept all the goods that are not wanted for immediate use in store. An excellent precaution we think, as it is not at all probable we shall escape the common fate of all mining towns that have preceded us on this coast, with regard to fire.

PICTORIALS.—Mose, who keeps a variety store opposite the International and near the Pike's Peak Saloon, sent us a bundle of pictorials, of which he keeps an assortment on hand.

TALK OF A VIGILANCE COMMITTEE.—Some excitement prevailed in the city and adjacent mines, for a day or two after the shooting of James Pinney by Thomas Fitz Hue, and many were in favor of organizing a vigilance committee to try the case outside of the forms of law. Better counsels prevailed, however, and it was considered best to let the law take its course and abide by the result.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.—Sam Houston & Co. are opening a circulating library in this place and Placerville. They have a library of 2000 volumes. The reading portion of the community will be glad to hear this announcement. Books and newspapers are much cheaper and better companions during the long Winter evenings, than any likely to be met with in the streets or bar-rooms of the city. Patronize the library.

GIVE US A POST-OFFICE.—Efficient as are our expresses, we still require a post-office, and mail route, at least once a week, to some point connecting with established lines. We have heard it reported that in obedience to a petition sent to Washington, proposals had been advertised for carrying the mail from Walla Walla to Salt Lake, via this basin, but we have no official information of the fact, and should like to be informed concerning it by persons able to explain how the matter stands. If no such petition has been sent, it is high time we were about it.

CUDDY'S GULCH.—The miners on Cuddy's Gulch—which is a tributary of Elk Creek—appear to be doing well. At any rate they are liberal to the printer. The carrier disposed of more papers on the day of our first issue, in proportion to the number of inhabitants, on Cuddy's Gulch, than any local
